ARCHITECTURAL DESCRIPTION:

Describe architectural features. Evaluate the characteristics of this building in terms of other buildings within the community.

The form of this astylistic house consists of a two-story rectangular block with a side-gable roof. In addition to the main block there is a one-story addition on the south side of the main block. The elevations are clad in wood shingles with plain cornerboards. The roofs are clad in asphalt shingles and the main roof has slightly-projecting open eaves capped by fascia boards, a detail also found next door at 20 Hide Away Lane (EAS.333). The one-story addition does not have open eaves. The front (west) elevation has an off-centered entrance in a simple surround. Fenestration consists of single and paired modern thermal 1/1 double-hung sash set in flat frames.

HISTORICAL NARRATIVE

Discuss the history of the building. Explain its associations with local (or state) history. Include uses of the building, and the role(s) the owners/occupants played within the community.

Incorporated as Nauset Plantation in 1646, and changed to Eastham in 1651, Eastham territory originally extended south to Pleasant Bay in Orleans and north beyond Wellfleet Harbor. The early development pattern for what we now know as Eastham was impacted by its absence of deep-water harbor facilities. Relatively fertile soil led to dispersed agricultural settlement, but residential and commercial development was concentrated to the north at Wellfleet Harbor and to the south at Town Cove and Pleasant Bay. When the separate towns of Wellfleet and Orleans were created in the late-18th century, Eastham became and remained one of the least populated towns on the Cape throughout the 19th century.

In the 19th century, Eastham was the agricultural center of the Outer Cape. Crops evolved over time; corn and dairy were surpassed in the early-20th century by asparagus and turnips - two crops well suited for the sandy soil. In 1900, 58% of Eastham's workers were employed as farmers, but by 1930 that number had dwindled to 21%. Summer resort development, including cottage colonies and subdivisions of former farmland that would transform Eastham, had begun in earnest in the 1920s as middle-class access to car ownership increased and Cape roads were improved.

This property is connected to the cottage development around Campground Road - one of the three earliest roads to extend west to Cape Cod Bay from the central sections of Eastham. Despite the early development of the road, which was established to serve the Methodist camp meetings in the mid-19th century, the great majority of houses that border it, especially to the north, are 20th-century vernacular summer cottages and retirement houses.

One of the early subdivisions at the west end of Campground Road was recorded in 1912 by Alonzo K. Higgins. Eastham-born Alonzo K. Higgins (1846-1918) married Elizabeth W. Rogers (1847-1923) in Orleans in 1870. He was listed as a farmer in census records throughout his life, but he was also very active in cottage development in the early-20th century. The 1912 subdivision consisted of 34 "Cottage Lots" on the north side of Campground Road that included what is now the southern portion of Bay Road and West Shore Drive (Figure 2).¹ The larger parcels were later subdivided to create the interior Hide Away Lane lots, and this house sits on portions of Lots 15 and 16.

In 1912, Alonzo Higgins sold Lot 6 in his subdivision to William Higgins of Eastham.² In 1922, Alonzo also sold Lots 14, 15 and 16 to William Higgins.³ William B. Higgins (1875-1935) married Bertha H. Brewer (1880-1933) in Eastham in 1898. William Higgins owned other parcels in the Campground area, and he was very likely related to Alonzo Higgins, but their kinship is not yet known.

According to census records, William Higgins was a house carpenter, one of many in Eastham in the early-20th century. If this house does date to ca. 1925 (the Assessor date), then he was likely the builder. It is one of three in a row along this small lane created between Campground Road and West Shore Drive (20, 30 and 40 Hide Away Lane). According to the Eastham Tax Commitment records, starting in 1920, Higgins was assessed for an increasing number of cottages. It is not possible to know exactly when this cottage was built from those records, but a ca. 1925 construction date appears reasonable. Given that William Higgins did not buy Lots 15 and 16 until 1922, portions of which comprises this parcel, it seems likely that he did not build this cottage until after 1922. He likely kept this house as a rental property – he was listed living on Nauset Road in the 1929 Directory. This cottage is present in the 1938 United States Geological Survey (USGS) aerial survey of Cape Cod (Photo 2).

This property was inherited by his adopted son, John W. Higgins. In 1942, John Higgins' estate sold this property to Frances H. Higgins of North Eastham.⁴ No information has been identified to date regarding the likely kinship between John and Frances Higgins, but this sale was for $1,500 (i.e. not a nominal sum). In 1950, Frances Higgins sold this property to Helen N. and John A. Daniels of Somerville.⁵ This cottage, and the cottage next door at 20 Hide Away Lane (EAS.333), went on to have shared ownership between the Daniels, Perry and Woodside families, all from Somerville.
